

Learning parameters from observation data